SUPERIOR GENERAL TO ALL THE MISSIONARIES OF ST. FRANCIS DE SALES

GENERAL CHAPTER XX

(FEBRUARY 01 - 13, 2019)

257 DAYS TO GO

at MSFS PROVINCIAL HOUSE, GUWAHATI, INDIA

My dear Confreres:

I wish you a Happy Feast of Pentecost! The Paschal Mystery of Christ is brought to completion, fifty days after Easter Sunday, by the outpouring of the Holy Spirit on the apostles and their followers.

On the day of Pentecost, we celebrate the birthday of the Church and of ours as well, as we are the body of Christ. We celebrate the beginning of the apostles' ministry 'to make disciples of all nations'. The heart of the great missionary commission of Christ is to 'make disciples' (Mt 28:19 – 20). The Holy Spirit builds, animates, and sanctifies the Church. 'The Holy Spirit enables us to turn to God in every situation, producing the fruit of holiness in our life' (Gaudete et Exsultate no.15).

1. FRANCIS AND FRANCIS: 'CALL TO HOLINESS IN TODAY'S WORLD'

Pope Francis, often called as a man of Vatican II, offers us inspirations on how to live our call to holiness in his apostolic exhortation, "Gaudete et Exsultate" (Rejoice and be Glad): On the Call to Holiness in Today's World. St. Francis de Sales, in many ways, is said to have anticipated the deliberations and decisions of Second Vatican Council, with keen and progressive insights. He had taught that everyone, without exception, is called to be holy. As we read through Gaudete et Exsultate (GE), we will see several connections and intersections between the spirituality of St. Francis de Sales and the five chapters of GE. Both 'FRANCIS AND FRANCIS' offer us an opportunity to renew our efforts at growing in holiness in order to serve others. I invite us to spend some time to read and study GE in the context of our spirituality and our growth in holiness.

II. 'HOLINESS DOES NOT MAKE YOU LESS HUMAN'

Pope Francis: The mission of every Christian is to grow in holiness in his or her own way. 'Holiness is the most attractive face of the Church. We are frequently tempted to think that holiness is only for those who can withdraw from ordinary affairs to spend much time in prayer. This is not the case. We are called to be holy by living our lives with love and by bearing witness in everything we do, wherever we find ourselves'. "Holiness does not make you less human, since it is an encounter between your weakness and the power of God's grace" (GE 34). "This holiness to which the Lord calls you will grow through small gestures" (GE 16).

SFS: In his Intorduction to the Devout Life, Francis offers profound guidance for the person living in the midst of the world and wishing to pursue a holy life. De Sales felt that all people, in all walks of life, are called by God to a devout life. He taught that living a devout and holy life was not only possible but practical. The genius of SFS was to realize that all are called to holiness (to grow in communion with God), each of us according to our individual position and state of life. The central theme of De Sales spirituality is devout humanism, spirituality of the heart, always respectful of humanity. The small gestures of holiness mentioned by Pope Francie mirror what SFS speaks about our own spiritual life 'as simply doing all we do out of the love of God'.

III. TWO ENEMIES TO HOLINESS

Holy Father speaks of two enemies to holiness; they are the modern manifestations of two old heresies – Gnosticism and Pelagianism. The temptation to reduce Christian holiness to a set of abstract ideas detached from the flesh (modern Gnosticism) makes individuals "incapable of touching Christ's suffering flesh in other, locked up as they are in an encyclopaedia of abstraction" (GE. 37). The temptation to reduce salvation and holiness to our own power, success, and outward actions (modern Pelagianism) which lead individuals to feel "superior to others because they observe certain rules or remain intransigently faithful to a particular Catholic style" (GE. 49). GE alerts us of the dangers of these two temptations stating that knowledge and intellectual accomplishments should not eclipse our devotion (on the Gnostic side), and holiness must always be rooted in the Divine Life/Grace and not on our merits (on the Pelagian side).

SFS speaks of an exterior display of spirituality without inner transformation as an enemy of holiness.

The pursuit of holiness should transform our attitudes. This inner transformation of heart should ultimately point us toward being holy in the sense that God alone is sufficient for me and that I belong to Him completely and exclusively. When we discover that we belong to no one except to God and that only God's love can satisfy the deepest longings of our heart, we are on the road to holiness. SFS once wrote a letter to an exasperated and depressed soul who sought his holy counsel: 'God wants your misery to be the throne of His mercy. He desires that your powerlessness be the seat of His omnipotence'.

IV. ROADMAP TO HOLINESS

Pope Francis: Holiness does not just involve prayer, but also by how much our life has been transformed and lived out in the light of mercy. "Mercy is the beating heart of the Gospel" (GE 97). Holiness therefore is 'being poor at heart, reacting with meekness and humility, knowing how to mourn with others, hungering and thirsting for righteousness, keeping a heart free of all that tarnishes love, sowing peace all round us, accepting daily the path of the Gospel, even though it may cause us problems'.

SFS is known for his pastoral method of compassion toward sinners. The 'little virtues' of patience, humility, gentleness, simplicity, honesty, and hospitality are powerful salesian means to grow in holiness. Humility, which SFS acclaimed as the virtue of all virtues, seems to be taken up by Pope Francis with great importance when he says: "If you are unable to suffer and offer up a few humiliations, you are not humble and you are not on the path to holiness. The holiness that God bestows on his Church comes through the humiliation of his Son. He is the way. Humiliation makes you resemble Jesus; it is an unavoidable aspect of the imitation of Christ" (GE 118).

V. OUR JOURNEY IN COMMUNITY AS AN EXPRESSION OF HOLINESS

Pope Francis, while speaking of different expressions of holiness, mentions community life. In this Year of Local Community 2018, we are making conscious efforts to renew our sense of community life. Saint John of the Cross told one of his followers: "You are living with others in order to be fashioned and tried".

Let me share with you what a Provincial once shared with me about the state of a religious community. He visited a religious community that had little life. It lacked energy in its liturgy. There was no common meal, no common prayer, and no common re-creation. Each one seemed to be busy with his own gadgets and engaged in his own 'ministry'. Ministries were not growing in that community. Apostolates maintained their status quo. Common meeting was practically non-existent. What to do with such a religious community? was the frustration of the Provincial. Where there is no striving for holiness, there is destruction, deterioration, and eventually spiritual death. The road to holiness is challenging.

VI. LEARNINGS FROM GAUDETE ET EXSULTATE FOR OUR GROWTH IN HOLINESS:

- "Growth in holiness is a journey in community, side by side with others. ... Living or working alongside others is surely a path of spiritual growth (GE 141)
- A community that cherishes the little details of love, whose members care for one another and create an open and evangelizing environment, is a place where the risen Lord is present, sanctifying it in accordance with the Father's plan (GE 145)
- Sharing the word and celebrating the Eucharist together fosters fraternity and makes us a holy and missionary community (GE 142)
- Living in community means living in such a way that others can access me and influence my life and that I can get "out of myself" and serve the lives of others.
